ACADEMIC YEAR PROGRAM (AYP)

The Academic Year Program (AYP) gives students the opportunity to improve their general and academic English skills at CISL and then attend a semester at a college in California. It is popular with recent high school graduates taking a gap year and with students who want to attend an American university.

Ambitious students who want to experience American college life can appreciate the adventure of studying in a college in a new country with the support of CISL along the way. CISL helps students to prepare for their semester academically, personally, and linguistically. Before their first college semester, students have made CISL friends, honed their English skills, and received guidance from CISL staff. CISL students are able to enjoy their first American college experience without stress.

Students in the CISL Academic Year Program must study at least 16 weeks at CISL and enroll in one semester at a participating college. The specific CISL course plan depends on each student's language proficiency and goals, but most students take a combination of the following courses:

- Morning Courses
Monday – Friday, 9:00 a.m. – 12:40 p.m.
(Several course options available; contact school for details.)
- Afternoon Elective Courses:
Monday – Thursday, 1:30 p.m. – 3:10 p.m.

 - English for Academic Purposes (EAP) (12 weeks)

The course is divided into four three-week units; students can take one, two, three, or four units of the course. Students who successfully complete all four units of the EAP Course are eligible to participate in the CISL Pathway Program. (The CISL Pathway Program grants conditional acceptance to CISL students to universities and colleges partnered with CISL.).

This course is popular with students in the following programs:

Academic Year Program (pg. 6)
Pathway Program (pg. 7)
Intensive English Program (pg. 4)

This program is open to all CISL students who have completed the equivalent of a U.S. high school education and at least 12 weeks of a CISL morning class plus the 12-week CISL English for Academic Purposes (EAP) course. The CISL Pathway Program provides students access to its Pathway partners (oftentimes securing the student admission without submitting English proficiency exam scores, such as TOEFL or IELTS) but students must still apply for admission to the college or university. The Global Success Course is designed for ambitious learners, executives, and professionals who want to be successful in the global economy. The Global Success Course curriculum is based on the needs and goals of the students currently in each class (there is a maximum of only four students per class), so students can gain the English skills they need quickly.

A key component of the course is goal setting. Students make language goals each week, and the course objectives and student learning outcomes are based on these weekly goals and the teacher's assessment of the students' needs. Every Monday, students set goals, then the instructor creates student learning outcomes that describe what the students will be able to do by the end of the week and delivers lessons on those topics. At the end of the week, students are assessed and receive written feedback from their teacher on their progress, participation, strengths, and weaknesses.

This program gives students opportunities to increase their confidence in English communication with:
